Preview Shows New City Budget Will Top $7 Million; 5-Year Plan Prepared

by Diane Oberg

At its April 6 regular meeting, the Greenbelt City Council heard a preview of the 1987/88 fiscal year budget, agreed to support a zoning exception for a photography studio in Boxwood Village, and accepted the Community Relations Advisory Board (CRAB) report on the future of the North End School.

The meeting began with two presentations. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld presented a proclamation to the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad designating April as General Fund Drive Month. He urged all citizens to contribute to the drive.

Then Joseph Pedone of the Maryland Department of Licensing and Regulation presented the Award for Distinguished Budget Presentation for the 1986/87 fiscal year. Given to the city by the Government Finance Officers Association, the award recognizes the city's budget presentation as a "pioneering" effort to "improve the quality of budgeting and provide excellent examples for other governments."

This is the first time the city has received this award, and it is one of only 200 government entities to have received it.

Budget

City Manager James K. Giese reported that the fiscal 1987/88 budget review has been completed but that the actual budget document would not be available for approximately two weeks. In addition to the normal information, this year's report will include the city's first five-year budget.

The budget, which will total more than seven million dollars, provides for growth without requiring a tax increase, according to Giese. He said it will include a proposal to raise refuse fees by 12 percent.

Mayor pro tem Thomas X. White objected to the budget documents not being available at the first council meeting in April, as called for in the city's charter. He said he felt that the late presentation was being built into the schedule but noted that part of the fault is council's for increasing the non-budget burden on staff during the budget preparation period.

Giese said he shared White's concerns and was not happy with not having the budget prepared on time. However, Giese noted that the five-year budget should reduce the time required for future budget preparations since some of next year's problems have already been identified.

Photography Studio

By a 4-1 vote, with White opposed, council agreed to support a zoning exception for the Adkins Photography Studio on Rosewood Drive, as recommended by the Advisory Planning Board.

White's opposition was based not upon the specifics of the case but rather on an opposition to all exceptions as a matter of policy.

Council member Joseph Isaacs suggested that the city avoid setting a possible precedent by allowing the county to approve the exception without the city taking a formal position.

Strategic Planning

The Construction and Renovation Subcommittee of the Strategic Planning Group suggested another full planning session to discuss the projects proposed in the bond issue. Since not all the projects can be completed with the funds approved, the subcommittee feels that input from the entire planning group would be beneficial. As proposed, the session would develop a list of projects, priorities and financing based on comments of the group members.

Council member Edward Putens supported the proposal, saying that the meeting would give council

GHI Board Hears Senior Housing Proposal; Reviews Sidewalk Issue

by Sid Kastner

In a relatively short meeting on Thursday evening, April 9, the GHI board of directors heard a presentation by the Housing Committee of the Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative (GCC), a request for support from the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum and member comments on the question of a sidewalk along the Ridge-Crescent arc between Westway and 7 Court Crescent.

Senior Housing Project

An overview of a proposed senior housing cooperative was given jointly by manager Ron Colton, in his memorandum to the board, and by James Cassels, who appeared to inform the board on GHI's possible role in the project.

The GCC Housing Committee has been looking at alternative sites since its first choice adjacent to the Lake Park did not win general acceptance. It has asked GHI to consider leasing a two-acre section of the garage site at Parkway and Crescent for the purpose of constructing the proposed facility. There would be about 80 apartments, mostly one-bedroom, with two-bedroom units and a few hotel-type rooms for overnight guests. The property would be owned and self-managed by a new cooperative as a non-profit, limited-equity operation selling the units and operating them at cost. Cassels gave a concrete example of such a group of seniors in Texas who are managing their own cooperative.

Colton described three kinds of issues from GHI's point of view raised by consideration of such a facility. First, planning and aesthetic issues are involved in having a large building occupy the site and replacing the garage parking presently used by members, primarily in the frame homes. Secondly, with regard to zoning, "There are no clear answers to the question of what regulatory requirements would apply," Colton said. He noted that subdivision of the GDC land at the location would be required. He thought this might be a "non-conforming use" which could entail new rezoning for the parcel. Thirdly, there are four categories of cost to GHI and/or GDC which would have to be recovered in any sale or lease of the site. According to the staff's financial assessment, these would be: (a) the land value, (b) cost of replacement parking, (c) tax increase resulting from development of the land, and (d) replacement of garage income. The staff's memorandum concluded: "We recognize that there is a real need for such housing and support its construction (but) given the complexities involved with the Parkway garage site . . . this may not be a cost-effective location or one which could be developed in the near future."

Cassels in his briefing acknowledged some difficulties associated with this site; for example, with the zoning situation which he has recently discussed with Park and Planning officials on a visit to the location. He noted however that these officials had suggested that since the old Area Master Plan is being revised, the housing group could work with the city to include this project in the new Master Plan. He proposed therefore that a joint committee including the GCC Housing Committee, the city of Greenbelt and GHI be set up to work with Park and Planning and to do a study of needs. Cassels mentioned in this connection that the city's Advisory Planning Board was willing to analyze any suggested site.

Cautious reactions were voiced by directors Debbie Hartwick and Ray McCawley. Hartwick did not "see the need to get GHI involved,

Sovran Bank Celebrates Forty Years in Greenbelt

There's more than one anniversary being planned in Greenbelt lately. Sovran Bank will celebrate 40 years in the community Saturday, April 25 from noon to 3 p.m.

Throughout the festivities, the bank will try to recreate the 1940s with Big Band sounds and topical trivia. Three $100 savings bonds will be given away during the afternoon. There will also be free hot dogs and apple pie for everyone.

The bank opened in 1947 as Prince Georges Bank & Trust, according to office manager Nancy Battaglini. In 1951, it merged with Suburban National Trust, which was based in Silver Spring, and became known as Suburban Trust. Recently, the name changed again to Sovran Bank.

Battaglini said that anyone is welcome to stop in the newly remodeled offices from April 21-25 to register for the savings bonds drawing.

Two Serious Accidents In City Mar Weekend

A 74-year-old pedestrian crossing Crescent Road near St. Hugh's Catholic Church was struck by a car about 9 a.m. Saturday, April 11. He died about two hours later as a result of his injuries. The victim was Stanley C. Osinski of Lastner Lane. Osinski was taken to AMI Doctors' Hospital in a Greenbelt Rescue Squad ambulance. He was pronounced dead at 11:28 a.m.

The operator of the striking vehicle, Robert A. Leonardi, age 47, College Park, told police that he was blinded by the bright morning sun and did not see the victim until after the impact, said police spokesman Pat McAndrew.

No charges were placed against the driver. McAndrew said, but police will present the facts to the State's Attorney when their investigation is completed.

In another serious accident which occurred about 10 p.m. Friday, April 10 in front of the 14 Court of Hillside, the driver of a Harley-Davidson motorcycle ran head-on into the left front of a truck which was being backed into the court. The driver of the motorcycle, Eric Lee Moore, Jr., age 25, of the 44 Court of Ridge Rd., was taken to AMI Doctors' Hospital by Greenbelt Rescue Squad ambulance and admitted to the intensive care ward in serious condition suffering from multiple injuries.

Congratulations!

The appointment of James R. Craze to be Chief of Police is most welcome. It is a good appointment and all concerned are to be congratulated.

First, we wish to congratulate City Manager James K. Giese for his initiative in appointing Craze to the post.

Second, we wish to congratulate our new Chief of Police, whom we consider to be an excellent choice. We had worried and wondered where the city would find a worthy successor to Chief Hutson, and we are delighted that such a person was found within the ranks of our own Police Department.

Third, we congratulate the members of the Police Department on being under the leadership of Chief Craze. Surely all city police officers must be pleased that the promotion was made from within their own ranks.

Finally, we congratulate the citizens of Greenbelt. We have a fine Police Chief and we look forward to the standards of excellence that are certainly within his capabilities to set and maintain.

Council's Responsibility

To the Editor:

I have been following with interest the activities of the Citizens for North End School (CNEC). Their proposed projects would benefit Greenbelters of all ages. Some months ago I participated in a canvas of only a part of the North End homes. I received only one indifferent reply. The members know how to procure funds outside of Greenbelt. But this is only a fragment of what is needed. The rest is council's responsibility. I think someone needs to light a fire under council (figuratively). And the ones to do it are the members of CNEC.

Dorothy McGee

Remember Commitment

To the Editor:

I have noticed with interest the developing dilemma on the part of city council with respect to the shortage of funds available from the bond issue for the numerous proposed projects.

Although I believe that very few people considered the bond issue to be undersubscribed from the beginning, council should remember one crucial commitment they made during the selling of the bond issue to the citizens of Greenbelt: that the partitioning of bond monies into three equal categories would not be violated. Thus $2,000,000 would be allocated for the construction of a police station and related building improvements; $2,000,000 would be available for swimming pool construction; and $2,000,000 for parkland improvement and acquisition.

Given the high level of over-subscription of the first two categories, it was anticipated that council would be tempted, under special interest group pressures, to use the parkland category monies to finance other endeavors. Hence a promise was obtained from council to preserve the financial integrity of the bond issue.

Does this leave council with no options? No. Council has several options, the way I see it: They can (1) scale down the size of some of the construction activities to fit within their category cost limits. (2) return to the citizens with a referendum question seeking a redistribution of funds among the three categories. (3) return to the citizens with a referendum question seeking an increase in the bond issue total amount. In all but the first of these alternatives the citizens must be consulted via the referendum process. To do otherwise would be to implement a bond program very different from that sold to the voters. Many voters, myself included, found the most attractive part of the bond issue to be its potential to aid in the preservation of Greenbelt's greenbelt.

JOIN NOW!

To the Editor:

Alan Freas' letter to Citizen's for Greenbelt (CFG) members is a moving letter from the new president, full of hope and expectations about our great community. However, there was also a note of sadness in it: the population of Greenbelt exceeds 18,000, yet our membership is only a little over 100.

CFG has done many great things for the city in spite of our low numbers. This organization needs support from all Greenbelters. Please consider joining today.

CFG Spoke about Parkland

To the Editor:

An Easter lily to Betsy Likowski, who could not personally attend the Annual Meeting of Citizens for Greenbelt, Inc. but did write an informative follow-up article by talking to and asking questions of members who attended.

The subject of the purchase of Parkland, one of the important segments of the bond issue, was inadvertently omitted.

The CFG members who are strong supporters of the latter and were unable to attend the meeting will be relieved to know that Barry Schlesinger and others expressed support. While no motion was offered, no doubt this part of the bond issue will be the subject of further discussion.

Eunice E. Coxon

Another Lap

To the Editor:

I read with interest the letters and worksession report on the pool proposal. I agree with Mr. Sutherland that swimming is about the best possible form of exercise.

"Name withheld" brought up an interesting point: parking, with exhaust gasses polluting the environment. George Rogala stated that amenities for the proposed indoor pool are important because they attract users from outside the city and help pay for operational expenses. Users from outside the city will have to drive to the proposed pool. So will all Greenbelters who do not live in walking distance. And even persons living within walking distance may not wish to walk during the winter. Traffic will undoubtedly increase and additional parking spaces seem a necessity. Even without an indoor pool it is already difficult to find a parking space when visiting the Post Office!

Mr. Goldberg states correctly that I currently have no need for another indoor pool. But I do not consider myself "special" — I swim after work and during the weekend. What goes for me goes also for others: it is possible to swim reasonably and conveniently. Granted, I do have a car. So do a lot of other people. As for those who don't it would be less costly for the city to organize transportation than to build the indoor pool. I believe that something like that is already going on for Seniors, who swim and exercise in a pool during the winter. It might also be worthwhile exploring additional opportunities for daytime swimming, when excess pool capacity exists. It may be possible to organize "dollar swims" in the same way as "dollar movies" are now available.

I hope I am wrong (but) reading about the worksession and scrutinizing the architect's sketch, I get the impression that after the renovation Greenbelt will wind up with (1) a shorter outdoor pool. (2) without a diving pool and (3) without a kiddie pool.

I want to thank the News Review volunteers whose efforts make these free exchanges of thoughts possible. This is what democracy is all about: looking at the issues from all angles, then having 51 plus percent of the voters decide what actually will happen.

Leonie Penney

Letters to the Editor

Praise for Green Ridge House and Greenbelt

To the Editor:

So, I've finally arrived, after a lifetime of working, raising a family, and paying taxes. I reached retirement—a time looked forward to with hopes of security, happiness and a pleasant environment. Living at Green Ridge House has helped make those hopes a reality.

Green Ridge House is an apartment community for active senior citizens who live independently. In this modern, well-maintained building on Ridge Road we enjoy our retirement years free from overwhelming financial hardships through the rent-control program in which monthly payments are based on income.

For those who wish to dine with their friends, the cafeteria provides one hot meal a day, planned by a nutritionist. A hot house on the ground floor allows those of us with green thumbs to raise plants the year round. The game room provides entertainment for many, day or night, and special activities in the community room keep everyone active. Our laundry room is spacious and clean.

Outdoors there are plots for gardening, picnic tables on the patio for picnics or barbecues, and benches for simply relaxing and enjoying the fresh air.

Entrance to the building is controlled by a phone-in security system, enabling us all to sleep soundly at night. Each apartment is also equipped with two emergency pull cords.

All these features make our lives more care-free and enjoyable, but the greatest benefit is living with other mature friends who are energetic and healthy, which keeps us all young. Each resident truly cares about his or her neighbor and is willing to chat or lend a hand, which is the greatest pleasure of all.

Retirement here at Green Ridge House is truly a pleasure, and the City of Greenbelt should be proud of a job well done.

Green Ridge House is a 100-unit complex on spacious grounds and the intangible benefits are enjoyed by all the tenants brought together to live as one large happy family.

These people have come here and settled in Greenbelt from many countries and various states of the United States. They have all brought with them feelings of love, understanding, patience, good will and joy. All these contribute to the complete happiness of each person. This can come only from a true feeling of family.

The cohesive element affecting the happiness, peace, love and understanding of the residents of Green Ridge House is the resident manager, Ruth Stinson.

BARC Tract UsesBacked by County

Editor's Note: After the scheduled auction of the 13-acre Parcel 5 tract of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center was delayed, the Prince Georges County Council and County Executive sent the following letter to Congressman Steny Hoyer:

Once again, we are alarmed that the General Services Administration is apparently taking steps to dispose of a portion of the Beltsville Agricultural Center adjacent to U.S. 1. Our purpose in writing is to reiterate the County's longstanding opposition to the fragmentation of this tract and to express our appreciation for your support and diligence in fighting its piecemeal dismantlement. Further, inasmuch as the General Services Administration has apparently agreed to postpone action relating to disposition for a period of 90 days, and to extend that period as necessary to meet the concerns of local officials, an opportunity now exists to consider future actions regarding the property.

We understand that the General Services Administration has developed consolidation plans and is working with various U.S. Government departments and agencies to bring geographically dispersed offices together at a single site. In this regard, it would seem that the Beltsville Agricultural Center property would be a suitable location for consolidating agriculturally oriented functions such as the USDA.

As you recall, in 1983 the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission advised the General Services Administration of the County's interest in acquiring the property for public administrative, educational, institutional, economic development, or recreational purposes, or any other use deemed appropriate by County government and beneficial to the citizens of the County. Although there is serious question regarding the ability of local government to fund such an acquisition at this time, it may be possible in the next few months to develop a funding package involving various State and local sources, such as the Advance Land Acquisition Fund, the State of Maryland, and/or the University of Maryland, depending upon agreement as to the ultimate use of the property.

Again, thank you for the initiative you have taken in this matter. We look forward to working with you and other interested parties to determine an appropriate course of action on the subject property.

All Pooped Out

Editor's Note: We are up to our ears in doggy letters. Here are excerpts from several—but please, no more!

—Once again Spring has come to Greenbelt. Yet as in the past the walkers and strollers have to play hopscotch over and around the dog piles.

When are the animal wardens going to do their jobs? The path of Gardenway to the garden plots, the ball park at 7 and 9 Courts of Southway, and the open field at Lastner Lane should be limed.

These areas are not doggy potty areas. Come on, citizens, just how much do we have to take?

Woman's Club of Greenbelt

—The county law concerning animal control states that "No person owning . . . a dog or cat . . . shall allow or permit excrement of such animal to remain on public property. . . ." The city regulations state the same.

Complaints have been written over and over in these columns. It's time these laws were enforced. It's time these people were fined.

We are interested in anyone else who is concerned about this problem. Please call with your suggestions or solutions.

Beth Fendlay
441-9485
Mary Ann Baldauf
441-2640

—I would like to add my voice to the chorus of voices who are expressing disgust about the dog litter. Even the lake park is fouled.

I would like to remind the residents of Charlestowne Village who walk their dogs behind the 7700 building that the officially designated dog-walk area is back near the tree line, not next to the sidewalk and not at the side of the building.

My misanthropic tendencies really surface over this issue. It's humans who are at fault, not the animals. City council needs to take a look at this issue.

R. Sue Benson

—I recently had a revealing conversation with an inconsiderate dog owner. I was sitting on the lawn 10 feet from the main entrance of the library. A gentleman with two dogs on leashes walked up, stopped, and watched as one of his dogs soiled the lawn six feet from where I sat. He then began to walk away.

I told him it was rude to leave dog soil on the ground. He replied he wasn't the kind to clean up after his dog. I said he ought to be ashamed, that I had to worry about every step I and my children took because of people like him. He walked away, saying, "Lady, you've got your opinion and I've got mine." I called, "There's a law against it." His response was, "Maybe so."

GHI NOTES

The next GHI Board of Directors meeting will be Thursday, April 23 at 8 p.m. in the GHI Board Room. Members are always welcome to attend all regular sessions of the GHI Board of Directors.

GHI has heard from one member who remembers the visit of the locusts 17 years ago. While the bugs didn't eat, they did damage the soft woody parts of new plants. The bugs can be picked off bushes by hand or perhaps caught in a trap. Members may want to cover their new prized shrubs for protection. The 17-year locust should appear sometime in May.

cil a wider range of opinions in developing priorities.

Isaacs questioned why the subcommittee was involving itself with priorities, saying that the subcommittee should follow a "generic" approach, setting goals and developing strategies to meet them. He felt that priorities are a council responsibility.

White concurred. He said that the bond issue priorities are a political decision, and that the subcommittee's proposed approach was not an appropriate means to make policy.

Weidenfeld urged council support, saying the group provides a good mix of people to aid in tough issues facing council. He said the resulting proposal would be taken to a public hearing.

Bram disagreed with the characterization of the bond issue priorities as political. She supported the proposal as a means of "neutralizing" the decisions rather than having the priorities become a "political football."

The motion to call another strategic planning session passed on a 3-2 vote with Isaacs and White opposed. The subcommittee will present a detailed work plan at the April 27 regular council meeting.

North End School

As part of the consent agenda, the council accepted the CRAB report on the North End School. This report will be discussed at the April 27 meeting.

CRAB recommended that the city renovate the 1967 addition and the one-story connecting front of the building, to be used for a senior day-care facility, a child pre-school day-care center, artists' studios and recreation/meeting activities in the auditorium.

However, CRAB recommended that these needs could be met in other existing or proposed city facilities, such as the renovated Municipal Building, Roosevelt Center and the indoor/outdoor pool facility, the school building be razed and the area converted to parkland.

These recommendations are based on an analysis of the costs of and support for the various proposals. In 1981 the city had investigated possible funding for a senior center, but found that the grants available were restricted to rehabilitation and could not be used to offset operating and maintenance costs.

In addition, the board felt that few non-profit organizations could afford the estimated rental fees of six to eight dollars per square foot, resulting in classroom rentals of up to $8,800 per year. CRAB said that the proposal put forward by the Citizens for the North End Center would only partially cover the costs of operation and maintenance.

In CRAB's December 1986 questionnaire, a majority of the respondents opposed six- and ten-cent increases in the tax rate to pay for operating the North End School, while a bare majority (51%) supported a three percent tax hike.

Thus, CRAB concluded that adequate support for a tax increase sufficient to renovate the entire building does not exist. The board detailed the funds available for renovation: $243,000 in the North End reserve; $143,000 in the reserve for building projects; $111,000 from a 3.5% tax increase and $60,000-$75,000 in revenues from programs in the school for a total of $171,000-$188,000 annually. CRAB calculated these revenues to be sufficient to renovate the recommended portion.

Other Actions

In other actions Council:

—Approved an ordinance appropriating $48,000 for the purchase of .7 acre PEPCO substation and authorized the mayor to execute the sales contract.

—Passed, by a 4-1 vote with White opposed, an increase in the Admissions and Amusements Tax for Roof Gardens and Cabarets from four to five percent.

—Unanimously agreed to underwrite the $31,000 required to publish a pictorial history of Greenbelt being prepared by a subcommittee of the Fiftieth Anniversary Committee.

Depending on how well the book sells, the city will receive all or part of this money back, with the possibility of some surplus that could be used to support some specific city project. The city is prohibited by law from profit-making activities, so any surplus funds would have to be channeled to some program such as other Fiftieth Anniversary activities.

—Approved without dissent a revised position description for police lieutenant that phases in the education requirements introduced in September 1985. This action allows Sgt. Daniel O'Neil to take the promotion exam for the position vacated when James Craze was promoted to Police Chief. O'Neil had requested the change on the basis that while he had been taking the required course work, sufficient time had not passed since the description was revised to allow him to complete the requirements.

—Unanimously agreed to support the proposal that the Prince Georges Municipal Association hire, on a one year trial basis, a legislative liaison to represent the municipalities at County Council proceedings. Greenbelt's contribution, based on its assessed valuation, would be $1,470. Other municipalities' contributions range from Bowie's $2,793 down to Eagle Harbor's $4.52.

er municipalities' contributions range from Bowie's $2,793 down to Eagle Harbor's $4.52.

—In response to Bram's request for an update, Giese reported that the engineer's report on the stormwater problems on Greenhill Road would be available in approximately two weeks.

Shakespeare at the Utopia

Thursday, April 23 at 8 p.m. the Shakespeareans will open their production of "Much Ado About Nothing" with a special performance honoring Shakespeare's birthday, at the Greenbelt Arts Center's Utopia Theater. The production will run Fridays and Saturdays April 24, 25 and May 1, 2, 8 and 9 at 8 p.m. with a Sunday matinee May 3 at 2 p.m.

Directed by Greenbelter Virginia B. Zanner, "Much Ado About Nothing" is a comedy using Shakespearean tricks, ploys and disguises, to bring two independent and reluctant lovers together.

Many of the performers are from the original Shakespeareans, a group formed 20 years ago to offer Shakespeare at reasonable prices while providing opportunities for actors. Although the group has continued to be active, this is the first production in the ten years since they lost their performance space in the Union Methodist Church.

Director Ginny Zanner is one of the founding members of the Shakespeareans. She has also been involved with M.A.D., the Goddard Players and the Greenbelt Players.

Chuck Coley and Lisa Lorraine Holland play the star-crossed lovers. Holland studied acting at the London Academy of Music and the Dramatic Arts, where she played major roles. Chuck Coley recently appeared at the Lazy Susan in "George M!" and the West End Dinner Theatre in "Oklahoma!"

Produced by the Shakespeare Guild, the Shakespeareans plan to continue performing two plays yearly at the Greenbelt Arts Center's Utopia Theater.

Group, student and senior ticket discounts are available. Tickets may be purchased by mail order, at the Utopia Box Office and at all Ticketron outlets. For more information, call 441-8770.

if non-GHI sites are being considered," and McCawley thought GOC should go to the city for possible sites. Chairman Wayne Williams suggested on the other hand that GHI might need to be aware of possible developments on or near its land, with which Colton and director Nancy Hutchins agreed.

This first briefing will be followed by a fuller discussion at a later meeting, according to the chairman.

Sidewalk Question

On March 16, GHI sent a letter and questionnaire to the 104 homes between 7 Court Crescent and 8 Court Ridge to ask their views on whether a sidewalk should be constructed along this roadway. This question has been discussed previously at two city council meetings with a negative result. However, it was raised again recently in informal discussions between GHI and city management as a consequence of the recent road improvement in the area which clarifies road/yard boundaries.

There are 62 homes on Ridge and 42 homes on Crescent, from which a total of 51 responses were received, most from the Ridge Road members. Of this response 47% were opposed to a sidewalk while 37% favored it, with 15% undecided or not against. Those opposing felt that the inner walkways were sufficient, or that the money would be wasted, or that green space would be lost. Proponents of pedestrian sidewalks focused on the safety issue, saying that walking in the curving street is dangerous because of the obstructed view to oncoming traffic.

Members from 3 Court Crescent and 1 Court Ridge were present to represent both views. The member from 3 Court Crescent urged that a sidewalk was needed and stated that "preserving public safety is a responsibility" of the city and GHI. Members from 1 Court Ridge argued that there had only been one fatality in Greenbelt attributable to walking on the road, and that "We did without (sidewalks) for 50 years."

They felt "sidewalks would make Greenbelt less beautiful."

Steve Curtis, from the floor, thought there were "ways to put in usable sidewalks without affecting homes," but that the city would probably want a concrete recommendation from GHI. Directors Hutchins and McCawley were reluctant to press the issue, the latter saying, "I think it's the city's responsibility." On looking at the detailed map and survey provided by staff chairman Williams noted that three neighboring courts on Crescent were all in favor of a sidewalk so that a compromise solution could be a partial sidewalk in that area. This seemed to be in accord with some comments in the survey which suggested "doing pieces of the sidewalk rather than the whole thing," as McCawley had suggested earlier also. Williams indicated this could be a starting point for management to consider.

FOGM Request

Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM) are working with the city's 50th Anniversary Committee to coordinate the opening of the Museum in October, the month in which the first residents came to Greenbelt 50 years ago. Donald Volk, president of FOGM, and FOGM board member Mary Linstrom appeared in a fund-raising capacity to ask Greenbelt Homes, Inc. to donate $500 as a corporate charter membership fee.

There was hesitation among board members about going along with the request. Director Mac Wirick was "uncomfortable because of the amount of opposition to the Museum." Directors Hartwick and Hutchins were initially in agreement with member Steve Curtis who argued that "this is an overt expenditure (which) should be brought up at the Annual Meeting."

Another audience member questioned the independence of board members who were also members of FOGM. Volk replied that city council members have also been members of GHI without conflict of interest. McCawley, after referring to the bylaws for requirements to be met by funding requests, moved to support the FOGM request and Hutchins said she also would now vote for the request. The motion was passed 4 to 1 with Wirick voting against.

Other Items

A petition from 3 Court Crescent residents was presented to the board by Charles Hagelgans, requesting that parking spaces not be formally assigned there because two spaces are under trees and rotation of the spaces is fairer. The petition, triggered by recent numbering of the spaces by GHI staff, was passed to management to consider in the implementation of the general parking policy. . . . A resident of the 1 Court of Ridge Road told the board that he had complained to the city five years ago without effect about the need for a traffic sign to divert heavy trucks and outside traffic from penetrating into quiet residential areas of Greenbelt; manager Colton said he would contact the city about this. . . . Williams expressed concern about the potential danger from trees half-felled by the recent heavy snowstorms in wooded areas where children may play. Assistant manager Steve Wright said six workers will be on "woods duty" all summer to clear up the problems.

Did You Know

*Did you know that in 1942 when free swimming lessons for children were offered in the city's recreation program, 400 turned up? Classes had to be arranged on staggered days, two or three times a week.

*Did you know that the rock retaining wall behind the three water sources at Indian Springs was built in the spring of 1942? At the time, people thought the name derived from Indian Creek, into which the water from the springs flows. But the real reason is early picnickers found many arrowheads at Indian Springs. Certainly Indians were all through this area before the three Walker brothers from Scotland settled here. (Indian Springs, which is city parkland, can be reached today from a path near the picnic tables behind the rear parking lot of the Prudential Buildings in the Golden Triangle)

Green Town Mayors and Managers Featured at New Towns Conference

by Sandra Barnes

"The Greenbelt Conference on New Towns," May 2 and 3 at the Greenbelt Hilton, will bring together for the first time the mayors and city managers of the three green towns built by the federal government in 1937. In addition to Greenbelt, the government built Greenhills Ohio, near Cincinnati, and Greendale Wisconsin, near Milwaukee. All three green towns were built on the garden city principles which combined features of the planned community located near a business or industrial center surrounded by a belt of green.

All three towns have common physical characteristics such as the separation of vehicular and pedestrian traffic, an inner walkway system, and a commercial center within easy walking distance. Rowhouses in Greenhills are similar to those in Greenbelt; however, both Greenhills and Greendale have a number of single-family homes while Greenbelt has only about a dozen that were part of the original community. When they were first constructed, the three greenbelt towns were similar in size. Today, Greenbelt is nearly four times the size of her sister cities.

Mayor Sue Jones of Greenhills, Village President Bernard Schroedl of Greendale and Mayor Gil Weidenfeld of Greenbelt, will discuss the maintenance of their belts of green, growth issues, and their expectations for change in the next five to 10 years.

The three mayors will be joined on the panel—which meets Saturday, May 2—by their respective city or village managers who are David Moore, Greenhills; Donald Fieldstad, Jr., Greendale; and James K. Giese, Greenbelt.

Although the city or village managers have similar jobs, the mayors, who are all part-time, have differing powers and responsibilities according to local law. For example, Mayor Sue Jones of Greenhills is a judge in Mayor's Court and can perform marriages as well as sign police warrants.

Opportunities to meet and talk with the mayors and managers will be among the highlights of the conference. For information on how to register, contact Renee Bryan, Greenbelt City Offices, 474-8000.

Golden Age Club

by Janet James

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Ye Golden Agers of Greenbelt. Did you know that your Golden Age Club is 30 years old and that we are going to celebrate on Wednesday, April 22 with a "sit down" dinner in the gym at the Greenbelt Recreation Department? 'Tis true! 'Tis true! and we have invited as special guests Mayor and Mrs. Gil Weidenfeld, American Legion Post 136 Commander and Mrs. James Wersick, and Recreation Director Hank Irving and a member of his staff.

The dinner will be served at 12 noon by Barbara Doyle of Fort Washington. The menu will feature seafood in a puff pastry, pasta chicken salad, parried baby potatoes, broccoli with lemon butter, salads, bread and rolls, and coffee, tea and iced tea. There will be a medley of desserts, including black bottom pie, mini brownies and tarts.

There is a charge which must be paid with the reservation and covers not only the dinner but also entertainment furnished by Petrucci's Dinner Theatre of Laurel.

For further information call Louise Hooper, 474-6176.
